Headline:
Remaining wet and windy, with possible hail. Feeling cold.

Today:
Another wet and windy day, with frequent showers throughout. These are likely to be heavier during the morning, easing slightly through the afternoon, yet carry risk of hail. Some sunny spells through patchy cloud, but feeling cold. Maximum temperature 9 deg C (48 deg F).

Tonight:
A brief dry spell for many this evening, before showers approach again, some heavy, especially overnight. Easing towards dawn for most, but remaining frequent in northern areas. Strong winds. Minimum temperature 2 deg C (36 deg F).

Saturday:
Morning showers for many, but dry spells in southern areas. Briefly dry throughout in the afternoon, with some heavy showers later, before a dry night. Winds strengthening, possible gales. Maximum temperature 8 deg C (46 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
Largely dry Sunday, with showers later, and winds easing. Cloudy with a few showers Monday, but generally dry. Temperatures around average. Rain and drizzle Tuesday morning, but some sunshine later.
